Increasing equitable opportunities for Tulsa’s Hispanic/Latinx Families

Power of Families Project’s bilingual and bicultural Promotoras engage with families to better understand their social, economic, health, behavioral health, and inclusion needs. Promotoras are peer leaders in the community who receive specialized training to serve as community educators.

Program Objectives

- Provide a support system for immigrant and natural-born Hispanic/Latinx residents of Tulsa County
- Help ensure educational equity for Hispanic/Latinx children and decrease the rate of developmental delays
- Provide health education among Hispanic/Latinx families to promote current and future well-being
- Provide connection to the community for Tulsa’s Hispanic/Latinx families

Through engagement with these families, particularly those who are vulnerable and isolated, the program provides community partners and leaders with culturally competent local strategies to remove barriers and provide equitable opportunities for all families in Tulsa.

For more information:

Maria Elena Kuykendall
mkuykendall@csctulsa.org
csctulsa.org/the-power-of-families-project